

PAM AWARD 2010 Excellence in the Mediterranean

Hon. Claudio Azzolini

For his long career in politics and his dedication to dialogue in the Mediterranean region through the sterling work of the Fondazione Mediterraneo of Italy and also for his outstanding commitment to PAM, also in his capacity of honorary member.

Dr. Abdelhak Azzouzi

Dr Azzouzi is the President of the Interdisciplinary Center for Strategic and International Studies based in Morocco. He is being honoured for his commitment to promote intercultural dialogue in the Mediterranean and for his continued support to PAM ideals, debates and initiatives.

H.E. Melih Gokcek

Hon. Gokcek is the Mayor of the Greater Ankara Municipality. Submitted by the Turkish delegation, his nomination is being awarded for the unique efforts and initiatives to promote cooperation with other Foundations and Institutions at local, regional and international level within the Mediterranean region.

Gen. Luis Alejandro Sintés

President of the Hospital de la Isla del Rey, receives this award for the Foundation's role as a model example of civil society activities, in the preservation and restoration, with its own resources, of a small island which is part of the collective heritage of the Mediterranean civilisations.

Eng. Alessandro Ortis

President of the Italian Authority for Electricity and Gas, and former President of the Association of Mediterranean Regulators of electricity and gas (MEDREG), Eng. Ortis is one of the major supporters, in his personal capacity and on behalf of the Italian Authority and MEDREG, of PAM's activities in the Energy Sector, in view of future regional requirements. Under Mr Ortis' presidency, MEDREG became an observer to PAM and a very active partner.

Prof. Ioannis Seimenis

From the Postgraduate Department on Political, Economical & International relations in the Mediterranean, University of the Aegean, Rhodes, Greece. At the suggestion of the Greek National Parliamentary Delegation, the PAM Prize 2010 is awarded for the achievements in academic and research activities related to cooperation among Mediterranean countries.
